Figure 1 Percentage change between annualised total to Q4, 2011 and 2012 for selected offence groups

Regional comparisons

Group 01 Homicide offences increased in most regions with the exceptions of the Western and Southern regions. Likewise, for Group 02 Sexual offences, increases were seen in most regions, excluding the South Eastern and Dublin Metropolitan regions. The national decrease in Group 03 Attempts or threats to murder, assaults, harassments and related offences is reflected across all six Garda regions. See tables 4.1, 4.2 & 4.3.

Group 01 Homicides Offences

For 2012, there were 60 recorded Murder and Manslaughter offences, an increase of 15 on the same period in 2011. The decrease in the number of Dangerous driving leading to death offences from 21 in 2011 to 18 in 2012 may be due to the fact that all road collision investigations for this period have not yet concluded, which will result in some being reclassified as Homicide. See table 1.

In the period 2004 to 2012 Group 01 Homicide offences reached a peak in 2006 with 138 recorded offences, but then fell to 66 by 2011, followed by a rise to 78 in 2012. See table 4.1.

Group 02 Sexual Offences

In 2012, the number of offences recorded in this group rose slightly (+2.2%) to 2,059, from 2,014 in 2011. Increases were observed for recorded Sexual assault (not aggravated) offences (+5.5% to 1,271) and Rape of a male or female (+6.3%) offences. Overall, this group rose from 1,752 in 2004 to 2,059 in 2012. See table 4.2.

Group 03 Attempts or Threats to Murder, Assaults, Harassments and Related Offences

Assault causing harm, poisoning offences fell by 11.0% to 3,190 recorded offences in 2012, while the annual total for recorded Harassment and related offences fell by 10.7%, from 1,952 in 2011 to 1,744 in 2012. Other Assault offences fell by 9.1% to 10,109.

Overall, Group 03 offences have shown a steady decrease from 2008 (19,150 recorded offences) to 15,313 in 2012. See table 4.3.

For 2012, recorded Dangerous or negligent acts offences decreased by almost 10% to 9,012 when compared with 2011. Recorded offences in this group have shown a significant decline since 2007. See table 4.4.

Group 05 Kidnapping and Related Offences

Kidnapping and related offences fell by 10.1%, when comparing 2011 with 2012, from 109 to 98. This was due mainly to a decrease in False imprisonment offences from 76 to 65. Note: When considering long term trends in this group, it is important to note that Human trafficking offences were introduced to this group in 2008.

Group 06 Robbery, Extortion and Hijacking Offences

Group 06 Robbery, Extortion and Hijacking Offences fell by 3.9% between 2011 and 2012. Robbery from the person offences fell by 4.7% to 1,616 in 2012. A fall (-5.2%) was also seen in the number of Robbery of an establishment or institution offences, while the number of recorded offences of Robbery of cash or goods in transit rose from 39 to 49 in the same period.

Throughout the period 2004 to 2012, the majority of Group 06 offences have been in the Dublin Metropolitan Region. See table 4.6.

Group 07 Burglary and Related Offences

There were 27,774 recorded Burglary and related offences in 2012, representing a slight increase of 79 (+0.3%) on 2011. Background Information

Introduction

The Crime Incidents, Quarter 4, 2012 publication provides provisional figures for the number of offences recorded by An Garda Síochána, based on the Irish Crime Classification System (ICCS) but excluding elements of Group 4 (Dangerous or Negligent Acts), and all of Groups 14 (Road and Traffic Offences (Not Elsewhere Classified or nec)) and 16 (Offences Not Elsewhere Classified).

The ICCS replaced the Headline/Non-Headline classification, with its various sub-groupings, which was used for statistics up to 2005. Full details of the ICCS are available on page 36 or via the CSO homepage at www.cso.ie

Figures are provided from Quarter 1, 2009 to Quarter 4, 2012. The information supplied in this report refers only to crime incidents known to An Garda Síochána and recorded as such in the Garda PULSE (Police Using Leading Systems Effectively) system. Because of timing issues with respect to the extraction of data, figures may be revised subsequent to this publication.

The current report features summaries on the volume of offences recorded by An Garda Síochána between Quarter 1, 2009 to Quarter 4, 2012 in each ICCS offence group. The report also contains a breakdown of offences by Garda Region and Division from 2004-2012.

Background

In 2006 the CSO assumed responsibility for the publication of recorded crime statistics from An Garda Síochána. Prior to this, recorded crime statistics were published as part of the Crime Statistics section of Garda Annual Reports. An Garda Síochána ceased including this section in their annual reports from 2006, in recognition that the CSO was to assume this responsibility.

The information supplied in this report refers only to criminal incidents known to An Garda Síochána and recorded as such. Obviously, not every crime comes to the attention of An Garda Síochána, and the CSO provides additional information on non-recorded crime through its Crime and Victimisation surveys.

Technical notes

This section explains some of the technical terms that feature in the report.

Recorded Offences

Offences reported or which become known to members of An Garda Síochána are recorded when, on the balance of probability, a Garda determines that a criminal offence defined by law has taken place, and there is no credible evidence to the contrary.

If it is subsequently determined that a criminal offence did not take place, the criminal offence recorded is invalidated and is not counted in the statistics. If a person makes a report and subsequently withdraws it by stating that the criminal act did not take place, then this too is invalidated unless there is evidence to suggest that, by reasonable probability, the offence has taken place.

For criminal offences where victim confirmation is required (e.g. assault, fraud), a criminal offence is recorded only where the victim confirms the offence or where there is evidence to suggest that by reasonable probability it occurred.

Another important feature of a recorded offence is that it is based on the date reported to, or that it became known to, the Gardaí. This has major implications for some offence types. Notable amongst these are sexual offences, as it has often been the case that such offences have been reported to An Garda Síochána many years (sometimes decades) after the event(s).

Thus a sexual assault, which occurred in 1960, would be included in the statistics for 2006 if it was first reported in that year.

Garda Regions and Divisions

The fundamental unit for Garda geography is the level of the Garda Station. Stations are then aggregated to District level, then Division and Region. This geography is unique to An Garda Síochána.

An Garda Síochána has made a strategic decision to, and has begun the process of, moving to county-based geography. This will, in time, facilitate the examination of recorded crime data in the context of data held by, among others, Local Authorities.

The administrative boundaries used in this publication are the most current as of publication date.

Classification of Offences

A criminal offence is classified at the time it is entered on the PULSE system. In the vast majority of cases, this happens very soon after the crime incident becomes known to a member of An Garda Síochána.

However, many recorded crimes are followed by investigation, during which more information becomes available. This may result in offences being reclassified from one type of crime to another. Indeed, a record can also be marked as invalid (but not deleted) if it transpires that a criminal offence did not occur. Conversely, an incident, not initially thought to be criminal in nature, can subsequently be reclassified as a criminal incident on foot of further information.

Court outcomes - Homicide

In general, offences are not reclassified on PULSE on foot of a court outcome. An exception to this rule involves offences classified under Homicide Offences (ICCS Group 01). It can often be the case that a charge of murder is brought and a verdict of manslaughter is returned. In such a case, the original offence is reclassified to reflect the court outcome (It is for this reason that Murder/Manslaughter offences should be treated together in any trend analysis.).

Assaults – resulting in death

An assault is generally recorded as such close to the time of the assault incident. However, if the victim subsequently dies as a consequence, and after the assault has been recorded, this will always result in reclassification to a Homicide Offence on PULSE.

Recording Offences - Counting Rules

Crime counting rules are a complex area and have been the subject of debate over the years. However, from an information/statistical perspective, crime counting rules should be applied in accordance with established criteria.

To fully appreciate the complexity involved, it is useful to consider a criminal event which consists of more than one offence. For instance, a burglary and an assault offence can occur within one event. Furthermore, there could be offences of trespass, criminal damage and arson also occurring as part of the same event. For this event, the homicide would be recorded, as well as some other offences. It would be unreasonable to suppose that all offences should be recorded (especially if there was more than one victim, see below), as some would be considered to be trivial in the context of the homicide. So in this case, for practical purposes and on reasonable grounds, not all offences would be recorded. The question then is what is recorded and how does this give comparable data?

There are a number of key counting rules that are applied to the recording of offences. They are the Primary Offence and the One Offence Counts Per Victim rules.

Primary Offence Rule

- This particular counting rule dictates that when an incident results in a number of offences, only the most serious offence is counted for statistical purposes.

This is achieved by flagging, within PULSE, one offence which should “count” for that event. This practice promotes consistency. Counting only the primary incident is thus a good way of ensuring that there is consistent treatment of criminal events and consistency is paramount when it comes to comparison of data across geographic boundaries or over time. Without the primary offence rule, there would be no basis to compare these data over any boundaries be they geographic or time-based.

The offence with the severest potential penalty is generally flagged as the primary offence. However, offences against the person take precedence over offences against property when the offences have similar penalties.

One Offence Counts Per Victim

- A. In general, one offence is counted per victim for any crime incident (i.e. criminal event). So, irrespective of the number of offenders it is the number of victims of an incident that dictate how many offences will be recorded.

For example, a sexual event with one offender and two victims counts as two offences. Conversely, an event with two offenders and one victim counts as one offence (or crime incident) in the recorded crime statistics. In this latter case it is useful to remember that this one crime incident is the one that counts, regardless of how many offenders are prosecuted or subsequently convicted.

There are two exceptions to the one offence counts per victim rule.

- Financial losses sustained by institutions due to fraud

A first exception to the rule is a series of incidents involving credit/debit card/cheque card fraud. The critical issue in determining the number of offences recorded is who bears the financial loss of the incidents. If the financial loss is ultimately sustained by an institution (for instance a bank), a single offence is recorded because it is akin to a series of incidents against one victim (see note on repeat incidents below). However, if the financial loss is incurred by a number of individuals then normal rules apply and one offence does count per victim.

- Burglary

The second exception is that of burglary, where there may be more than one victim (in the normal sense of the word). This occurs when, for instance, items belonging to more than one person are taken. Counting one offence per individual (person) victim would affect comparability. This is because the number of burglaries recorded would become a function of the number of people living in burgled households. This is an interesting quantity from a victimisation perspective, but not from a crime counting perspective. Therefore, the one offence per victim rule is not applied in the case of burglary, and a single offence is generally recorded. It is useful to think of the burglary as being a crime against a household for statistical reasons.

- B. An extension of the One Offence Counts Per Victim rule applies for repeat incidents involving the same victim and the same offender.

Again, it is useful to look at sexual offences to illustrate this point. It may be the case that there are numerous crime incidents perpetrated by the same offender against the same victim stretching back for many years (and often reported many years after the last incident). It would be unreasonable to expect the same level of detail to be recorded about every individual offence that occurred throughout the series. Moreover, some victims may not, for a variety of reasons, be in a position to remember all of the incidents involved in the series. Therefore, applying the rule of one incident counts per victim for a series like this promotes consistency in approach for comparative purposes. That is not to say that more information cannot be provided on the numbers of such incidents. It can. It is simply a case of interpretation being subject to some extra caveats (For this type of incident series, it is open to debate whether the clustered nature of the offences (in time and/or place) renders them outside the scope of normal statistical comparison).
