INTRODUCTION TO THE NATIONAL QUALITY FRAMEWORK: DRIVING EXCELLENCE IN MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES

Significant change has taken place in mental health services nationally and internationally since the publication of the original Quality Framework (2007). The Mental Health Commission (MHC) collaborated with the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland (RCSI) to ensure the current document is rights-focused and evidence informed. This collaboration, in addition to an extensive stakeholder consultation process, resulted in the development of the National Quality Framework: Driving Excellence in Mental Health Services 2023 (“The National Quality Framework”).

The National Quality Framework sets out the themes, standards and associated criteria considered essential for delivering quality and recovery oriented mental health services in Ireland. It is applicable to all mental health services including inpatient mental health services, community residences, and community mental health services.

A self-appraisal toolkit has been designed to assist the service provider to scrutinise their services and determine if they have attained the standards and criteria set out in the National Quality Framework (See Appendix 1). The MHC has collaborated with a software contractor to develop an electronic version of the toolkit. This electronic version will be available to services on an optional basis based on a contractual agreement between the service provider and software contractor.

This electronic format utilises a digital dashboard system which will enable mental health services to have better oversight of their self-appraisal and quality assurance activities across multiple services.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the National Quality Framework is to provide clear guidance for people using mental health services, their families and representatives, service providers and the public as to what to expect in terms of best practice from a mental health service in the public, voluntary and independent sectors in Ireland.

The National Quality Framework provides a mechanism for services to move beyond compliance with minimum standards, such as those described in legislation, and instead strive for continuous improvement and better outcomes for people who use services. With an emphasis on the diverse needs of people who use services, this framework promotes an empowering approach to service delivery, where services support an individual’s personal journey towards recovery.

SCOPE

The National Quality Framework is applicable to all mental health services in the public, voluntary and independent sectors. It includes services for children and adolescents, adults, older persons, persons with an intellectual disability and a mental illness, and forensic mental health services.

FORMAT

The eight themes of The National Quality Framework are ensuring quality through:

1. Clinical and corporate leadership and governance within mental health services to deliver evidence-based care and quality improvement.
2. A compassionate, holistic, non-discriminatory, and person-centred service responsive to the needs of the service user (including their families, carers, and representatives).
3. A visible, accessible and holistic mental health system that prioritises prevention and promotes recovery.
4. An equal, socially inclusive and diverse mental health care service that recognises and responds to traumatic events and circumstances in peoples' lives.
5. A mental health service that understands recovery and supports the service user towards recovery.
6. Co-produced care planning which is underpinned by rights-based mental health care, confidentiality and takes into account an individual's will and preferences.
7. An adequately resourced, well led, and governed mental health care service.
8. An internally and externally connected mental health service.

DEVELOPMENT PROCESS

The framework and its associated standards and criteria are the result of an extensive consultation process and a review of quality frameworks in health systems in other countries.

THEME 1

Theme 1: Ensuring quality through clinical and corporate leadership and governance within mental health services to deliver evidence-based care and quality improvement.

Standard 1.1: The mental health service delivers quality throughout all aspects of the service, underpinned by effective clinical and corporate leadership and governance.

Criteria:

- 1.1.1: The mental health service promotes and encourages a culture of continuous quality improvement consistent with its philosophy of care.
- 1.1.2: The mental health service has clear standards for clinical and corporate governance that are outcome rather than process driven.
- 1.1.3: Services are designed, delivered, and evaluated in accordance with any relevant legislative requirements and national or international standards as appropriate.
- 1.1.4: The mental health service has explicit reporting relationships and organisational leadership structures.
- 1.1.5: Integrated systems are in place to mitigate, monitor, manage and ameliorate risk.
- 1.1.6: Key performance indicators for the service are defined and regularly reviewed.
- 1.1.7: Mechanisms are in place to monitor performance against key performance indicators and to manage underperformance.
- 1.1.8: Policies, procedures, protocols, and guidelines are in place that relate to the standards and criteria of the National Quality Framework.
- 1.1.9: The mental health service appraises its performance against the National Quality Framework.
- 1.1.10: The mental health service has an audit and standard and/or integrated quality and safety committee who report through the governance structures and benchmark across services.
- 1.1.11: The mental health service operates a policy of open disclosure.
- 1.1.12: The mental health service fosters a culture of clinical supervision.
- 1.1.13: The mental health service ensures that accurate and timely reports on safety and quality systems and performance are available to the public, where appropriate.

Standard 1.2: The mental health service delivers quality throughout all aspects of the service, underpinned by evidence informed policies and practices.

Criteria:

- 1.2.1: The mental health service uses best research evidence to inform and improve service planning and delivery.
- 1.2.2: The mental health service uses audit, benchmarking, and other data to inform and improve service planning and delivery.
- 1.2.3: The mental health service utilises data to provide targeted evaluation of service user need.

Standard 1.2: The mental health service delivers quality throughout all aspects of the service, underpinned by evidence informed policies and practices.

1.2.4: The mental health service adopts research methodologies that provide both breadth and depth of data.

1.2.5: The mental health service has dedicated persons to embed quality and drive quality improvement.

1.2.6: The mental health service shares service innovations with other providers to encourage further innovation and to avoid duplication.

1.2.7: The mental health service has an up-to-date repository of policies, procedures, protocols, and guidelines that is accessible by service providers.

1.2.8: The mental health service ensures that all service providers act in accordance with policies, procedures, protocols, and guidelines.

Standard 1.3: The mental health service values and actively seeks feedback from service users.

Criteria:

1.3.1: The mental health service audits the experience of service users, family members and carers across the continuum of care.

1.3.2: The mental health service plans services in consultation with service users and other key stakeholders.

1.3.3: The mental health service monitors engagement with and the effectiveness of specific services.

1.3.4: The mental health service incorporates evidence from service users, families and carers into its policies, procedures, protocols, guidelines, and education programmes.

1.3.5: The mental health service has a complaints process that is visible and easily accessible by all service users, families and carers.

Standard 1.4: The mental health service values and actively seeks feedback from staff.

Criteria:

1.4.1: The mental health service seeks, values and actions feedback from staff and volunteers.

1.4.2: The mental health service asks professionals delivering services what they think their service users need.

1.4.3: The mental health service provides opportunities for staff to undertake new roles within their scope of practice that are of benefit to service users.

Standard 1.5: The mental health service delivers a high-quality service through optimal use, leadership, and governance of non-human resources.

Criteria:

1.5.1: The mental health service has a secure and sustainable funding model and governance.

1.5.2: The mental health service works efficiently and effectively with partner services to ensure value for money and quality service user outcomes.

1.5.3: The mental health service has policies, procedures, protocols, and guidelines in place for good financial governance.

1.5.4: The mental health service flexibly adapts innovative approaches to personalised care that are proved to be cost effective while maintaining or improving quality of care.

THEME 2

Theme 2: Ensuring quality through a compassionate, holistic, non-discriminatory, and person-centred service responsive to the needs of the service user (including their families, carers, and representatives).

Standard 2.1: The mental health service is a mainstream service for all that flexibly responds to the needs of the individual and social groups.

Criteria:

2.1.1: The mental health service has an explicit philosophy of care which informs its culture.

2.1.2: The mental health service values person-centeredness, empathy, equity, inclusion, and individuality.

2.1.3: The mental health service promotes positive physical and mental health, and psychological wellbeing through general and targeted health promotion and preventive mechanisms.

2.1.4: The mental health service is reflective of the people it serves.

2.1.5: The mental health service is sensitive to the needs of specific cultures and minority groups, recognising and responding to factors that may inhibit access to person-centred care.

Standard 2.2: The mental health service adopts a multidisciplinary holistic approach across the continuum of care from acute to continuing.

Criteria:

2.2.1: The mental health service incorporates holistic approaches to care within a compassionate biopsychosocial philosophy.

2.2.2: The mental health service upholds human rights, dignity, and respect.

2.2.3: The mental health service informs service users of their rights.

2.2.4: The mental health service provides access to the wider multidisciplinary team to meet service user needs.

2.2.5: The mental health service provides for home-based care as an alternative to inpatient admission where appropriate.

THEME 3

Theme 3: Ensuring quality through a visible and accessible holistic mental health system and service that prioritises prevention and promotes recovery.

Standard 3.1: The mental health system provides an integrated service across the continuum of care in conjunction with its partners.

Criteria:

- 3.1.1: The mental health service adopts a holistic approach to service design and delivery that assesses and provides intervention through a biopsychosocial model.
- 3.1.2: The mental health service prioritises community care and avoids institutionalism by taking a whole system approach to prevent avoidable (re) admission.
- 3.1.3: The mental health service provides community supports which are delivered by appropriately qualified and accredited professionals.
- 3.1.4: The mental health service collaborates with partner services across the continuum of care.
- 3.1.5: The mental health service provides end-to-end journey systems that are accountable at all stages.
- 3.1.6: The mental health service is aligned to emerging integrated care structures under the reforms outlined in the National Policy.

Standard 3.2: The mental health service is responsive and accessible to all at the point of need.

Criteria:

- 3.2.1: The mental health service is available to all who need it, is easy to access, and is available when needed.
- 3.2.2: The mental health service consults with service users and other key stakeholders to optimise access pathways.
- 3.2.3: The mental health service provides early and frequent contact with service users accused of an offence.
- 3.2.4: The mental health service provides access to acute treatment beds for people of all ages with a dual diagnosis of intellectual disability and a mental health illness.
- 3.2.5: The mental health service focuses on prevention through the promotion of positive physical and mental health, wellbeing and wellness.
- 3.2.6: The mental health service focuses on prevention, early detection and early intervention in mental illness.
- 3.2.7: The mental health service is tiered and delivered in a location appropriate to the holistic needs of the service user, with a focus on the provision of community-based care where appropriate.
- 3.2.8: The mental health service provides specialised services outside the boundaries of traditional geographically distinct service areas based on the individual needs of the service user.

Standard 3.2: The mental health service is responsive and accessible to all at the point of need.

3.2.9: The mental health service is delivered by a multidisciplinary team appropriate to the holistic needs of the service user.

3.2.10: The mental health service is focused on agreed outcomes for the service user.

3.2.11: The service user is provided with information about and has access to appropriate advocacy services.

Standard 3.3: Access, discharge, and transition through mental health services is optimised.

Criteria:

3.3.1: The mental health service facilitates transition from child to adult services by developing sustainable relationships with the young person and creating a safe clinical environment.

3.3.2: The mental health service ensures an optimal journey through the system from access to exit across the continuum of care.

3.3.3: The mental health service provides a designated member of staff to facilitate continuity of care as the service user transitions through services (e.g. child to adult services).

3.3.4: The mental health service ensures that the care which it provides:

- is planned in consultation with the service user and their nominated representative, where appropriate. In the case of children, the child's parent or guardian should be consulted when updates to the care and treatment plan are made.
- is documented and communicated to the service user and their family member and/or the person's representative (where appropriate). All updates to the service user's care and treatment should also be communicated with the referring clinician (e.g. GP).

3.3.5: The mental health service ensures that the care which it provides is evidence based, safe, and in line with relevant regulations and legislation.

3.3.6: Service delivery is organised to enable personal recovery and wellness.

3.3.7: The mental health service has a process in place to maintain service user engagement with treatment, and where appropriate offers alternatives to optimise engagement.

3.3.8: The mental health service provides evidence-based psychosocial therapies to promote rehabilitation.

3.3.9: The mental health service works with local government bodies to affect the smooth transition of service users from residential to community care where necessary.

3.3.10: The mental health service incorporates relevant screening tools into recovery-oriented care planning and delivery.

THEME 4

Theme 4: Ensuring quality through an equal, socially inclusive and diverse mental health care service that recognises and responds to traumatic events and circumstances in peoples' lives.

Standard 4.1: The mental health service responds to the diverse needs of the community it serves.

Criteria:

- 4.1.1: The mental health service considers the needs, social circumstances and support structures of its sector population and the availability of staff with relevant skills.
- 4.1.2: The mental health service delivers a data-driven service to meet the full range of the population's mental health needs.
- 4.1.3: The mental health service works with the community to challenge stigmatising attitudes and discrimination.
- 4.1.4: The mental health service promotes service user advocacy groups.
- 4.1.5: The mental health service provides culturally appropriate care.
- 4.1.6: A multidisciplinary approach to mental health services for people with a dual-diagnosis of an intellectual disability and a mental health illness is adopted across the continuum of care.
- 4.1.7: Mental health services work with community partners to promote positive mental health in individuals and groups that are subject to discrimination, stigmatisation, and marginalisation.
- 4.1.8: The mental health service works with community partners to understand the specific needs of individual groups.
- 4.1.9: The mental health service provides culturally appropriate services to ethnic minorities to ensure stigma does not impede their recovery experience.

Standard 4.2: The mental health service partners with communities to promote social inclusion and advocacy on the social determinants of health.

Criteria:

- 4.2.1: The mental health service avails of community-based facilities to enable community involvement and enhance service visibility.
- 4.2.2: Mental health services collaborate with community-based services to promote mental health care in marginalised groups and underserved populations.
- 4.2.3: Mental health services address the mental health needs of minority groups experiencing systems-related and psycho-social barriers to accessing services.
- 4.2.4: Mental health services recognise cultural identity as a key factor in promoting positive mental health.
- 4.2.5: Mental health services promote the principles of equity, inclusion and respect for diversity.
- 4.2.6: The mental health service empowers service users to manage their own lives through stronger social relationships and sense of purpose.

Standard 4.3: The mental health service is underpinned by a trauma-informed approach to mental health care and treatment, which recognises that service users may have experienced some form of trauma in their life and seeks to resist traumatising or re-traumatising service users and staff.

Criteria:

4.3.1: The mental health service adopts a trauma-informed and sensitive approach to service users, recognising that all service users may have suffered trauma in their lives and acknowledging the impact of events or circumstances in their lives and factors that might have contributed to trauma.

4.3.2: The mental health service acknowledges, values and learns from the lived experience of the service user.

4.3.3: The mental health service identifies trauma in a service user's life and uses this insight to inform the planning and delivery of care.

4.3.4: The mental health service acknowledges that service providers may suffer trauma through their work and takes steps to ameliorate the risk and manage the effect.

THEME 5

Theme 5: Ensuring quality through a mental health service that understands recovery and supports the service user towards recovery.

Standard 5.1: The mental health service promotes autonomy and self-determination and includes the service user as an active participant in their care.

Criteria:

- 5.1.1: The mental health service provides a values-based, safe, and driven service that is trustworthy and accessible.
- 5.1.2: The mental health service adopts a multidisciplinary and co-production approach so that recovery begins at the care planning stage.
- 5.1.3: Service users have a key worker, written care plan and regular reviews designed to enable personalised, recovery-focused care.
- 5.1.4: The mental health service understands the importance of empathetic, kind, caring, and well-trained staff in service user recovery.
- 5.1.5: Recovery support teams are available to support service users with complex mental health needs.
- 5.1.6: Mental health services make use of non-mental health community-based facilities and social activities to holistically support the service user towards wellness and recovery.
- 5.1.7: Forensic mental health services provide access to comprehensive stepped mental health supports that are recovery oriented.
- 5.1.8: Mental health services track clinical progress against treatment plans to inform the understanding of service quality and performance.
- 5.1.9: The mental health service ensures service users (and the parents and guardians of child service users) are informed about medicines, and understand their individual medicine needs and risks.

Standard 5.2: The mental health service focuses on the service user's strengths to achieve a shared vision for recovery.

Criteria:

- 5.2.1: The mental health service prioritises continuity of staff in service user recovery.
- 5.2.2: The mental health service provides for community-based care in supporting service users towards recovery.
- 5.2.3: The mental health service recognises the role of the family, carer and person's representative in service user recovery.

THEME 6

Theme 6: Ensuring quality through co-produced care planning, which is underpinned by rights-based mental health care, confidentiality, and regard for an individual's will and preferences.

Standard 6.1: Service users are active participants in planning and delivering their care.

Criteria:

- 6.1.1: The mental health service demonstrates service user inclusivity in planning and delivering care, including, where appropriate, the inclusion of the person's nominated representative, and ensuring that the person's will and preference is at the centre of their care.
- 6.1.2: The mental health service provides skilled staff to facilitate the generation of a holistic, multidisciplinary, co-produced, individualised, and recovery-oriented care plan.
- 6.1.3: The mental health service utilises an evidence-based, values-based, recovery oriented, multidisciplinary care plan template to assess the needs and strengths of the individual service user.
- 6.1.4: A named individual is responsible for ensuring the service user receives biopsychosocial multidisciplinary care as planned and documented in their clinical file.
- 6.1.5: Care and treatment received by the service user is factually and sequentially documented in their clinical file.
- 6.1.6: Interactions with the service user's family, carer and/or advocate are factually, objectively, and sequentially documented in the service user's clinical file.
- 6.1.7: The mental health service regularly evaluates the care plan in conjunction with the service user and their family, carer and/or representative where appropriate.
- 6.1.8: The mental health service liaises with community partners to create a network of appropriate supports for each service user and their family, carer and/or representative.
- 6.1.9: The mental health service plans service user exit from the service in conjunction with the service user, and where appropriate the person's family, carer and/or representative.
- 6.1.10: The mental health service provides the service user with a key worker to facilitate coordination and personalisation of services in line with their co-produced recovery care plan.

Standard 6.2: The mental health service respects the privacy and confidentiality of service users.

Criteria:

6.2.1: The mental health service respects privacy and confidentiality and upholds human rights.

6.2.2: The mental health service adheres to legislative and regulatory requirements in relation to privacy, confidentiality, data protection, and consent as it relates to the sharing of service user data.

6.2.3: The mental health service acknowledges the evolving understanding of human rights and maintains policies and practice in line with current requirements.

6.2.4: The mental health service acknowledges different perspectives in relation to confidentiality, consent to the sharing of data, and family involvement along a continuum from full involvement, to partial involvement, to none.

6.2.5: The mental health service involves, informs and educates the service user's family, carer and/or representative in so far as is legally possible.

Standard 6.3: The mental health service adopts a rights-based approach to care.

Criteria:

6.3.1: The mental health service adopts rights-based standards that may be supported by legislation.

6.3.2: The mental health service upholds the human rights of the service user and takes account of the service user's individual will and preferences within a legal framework.

THEME 7

Theme 7: Ensuring quality through the provision of adequately resourced, well led, and governed mental health care services.

Standard 7.1: The mental health service is appropriately staffed to deliver a high quality, efficient and effective service at the time of need.

Criteria:

- 7.1.1: The mental health service is staffed by a kind, compassionate, educated, culturally aware, and multidisciplinary workforce.
- 7.1.2: The mental health service maintains staffing levels appropriate to the delivery of an efficient and effective recovery oriented service.
- 7.1.3: The mental health service maintains a skill mix appropriate to the delivery of an efficient and effective recovery oriented service.
- 7.1.4: The mental health service has policies and procedures in place for human resource management including recruitment and retention.
- 7.1.5: Mental health service staff demonstrate respect for service user dignity and privacy.
- 7.1.6: Mental health service staff demonstrate adherence to ethical standards and codes of professional practice.
- 7.1.7: The mental health service improves health outcomes for service users with dual diagnosis by sharing knowledge and expertise through effective collaboration between mental health and other relevant services.
- 7.1.8: The mental health service operates an effective performance management system.
- 7.1.9: The mental health service provides a supportive working environment to its staff.
- 7.1.10: The mental health service identifies and addresses any gaps in service provision.
- 7.1.11: The mental health service has an appropriate case management system in place to monitor service users' progression through the service.

Standard 7.2: The mental health service ensures that staff are equipped with the knowledge and skill to deliver efficient, effective, person-centred and recovery-oriented care.

Criteria:

- 7.2.1: The mental health service provides orientation and induction to all staff.
- 7.2.2: The mental health service provides opportunities for continued education and professional development.
- 7.2.3: The mental health service provides access to electronic learning resources.
- 7.2.4: The mental health service maintains a schedule of mandatory education and training and monitors compliance with mandatory education and training requirements.
- 7.2.5: The mental health service provides an environment conducive to working.

Standard 7.2: The mental health service ensures that staff are equipped with the knowledge and skill to deliver efficient, effective, person-centred and recovery-oriented care.

7.2.6: The mental health service provides, and ensures that service providers have undertaken, training in areas including, but not limited to:

- trauma-informed care, unconscious bias, discrimination, and stigma.
- cultural competence.
- positive behaviour support.
- human rights.
- the prevention and therapeutic management of violence and aggression.
- advocacy and the recovery ethos.
- assisted decision making and positive risk-taking, where required.
- safeguarding vulnerable adults, where applicable.
- child protection, where applicable.
- specific mental health therapies where applicable.
- specific mental health conditions and cohorts of service user, where applicable.

7.2.7: The mental health service collaborates with partner services to share education and training opportunities.

7.2.8: The mental health service provides training to staff on making and managing complaints.

7.2.9: The mental health service ensures that staff are competent to safely prescribe, dispense and administer appropriate medicines and monitor medicine use.

Standard 7.3: The mental health service supports the professional development of staff.

Criteria:

7.3.1: The mental health service provides annual personal and professional development planning and facilitates opportunities for non-technical skills training (e.g. policy development, leadership skills, and change management).

7.3.2: The mental health service has opportunities for career progression.

7.3.3: The mental health service engages in workforce development and planning.

7.3.4: The mental health service provides staff with systematic guidance regarding engagement strategies and the development of new, collaborative ways of working.

7.3.5: The mental health service encourages and shares innovation.

Standard 7.4: The mental health service ensures that physical environments and facilities are conducive to recovery-oriented care.

Criteria:

7.4.1: The mental health service provides a physical environment and facilities that are safe for all who access them.

7.4.2: The mental health service provides a physical environment and facilities that promotes privacy, good health and recovery.

7.4.3: The mental health service maintains physical environments and facilities that are fit for purpose, welcoming, relaxed, well-decorated and well designed.

THEME 8

Theme 8: Ensuring quality through an internally and externally connected mental health service.

Standard 8.1: The mental health service connects with key internal stakeholders and partners.

Criteria:

- 8.1.1: The mental health service has standards in place for information and communication technology infrastructure and usage.
- 8.1.2: The mental health service provides education and training on the use of information and communication technology including digital health solutions.
- 8.1.3: The mental health service monitors the effectiveness of digital health solutions from an outcomes perspective.
- 8.1.4: The mental health service is networked to governmental and non-governmental agencies.
- 8.1.5: The mental health service is effective and transparent in its communication with its staff and volunteers.

Standard 8.2: The mental health service connects with key external stakeholders and partners.

Criteria:

- 8.2.1: The mental health service has clear standards for communicating with key external stakeholders and partners.
- 8.2.2: The mental health service uses technology where appropriate as part of its service provision model.
- 8.2.3: The mental health service provides information to the general public, service users and their families, representatives and carers and about services provided and how they are accessed.
- 8.2.4: The mental health service provides information in a manner which is accessible and understandable to all.
- 8.2.5: The mental health service communicates in a variety of media.
- 8.2.6: The mental health service enhances in-reach and outreach services for service users with unmet needs.
- 8.2.7: The mental health service provides targeted mental health promotion and prevention actions that recognise the distinct needs of priority groups.
- 8.2.8: The mental health service works with partners to improve integration of care for individuals between primary care and mental health services. Clinical reports from the multidisciplinary team are shared routinely with the person's GP.
- 8.2.9: The mental health service contributes to directories of information on community and residential supports and services.

APPENDIX 1:

THE NATIONAL QUALITY FRAMEWORK: DRIVING EXCELLENCE IN MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES SELF-APPRAISAL TOOLKIT

(THE MHC RECOMMENDS THE USE OF THE ELECTRONIC VERSION OF THIS TOOLKIT WHICH CAN BE ACCESSED VIA WWW.MHCIRL.IE)

ABOUT THE NATIONAL QUALITY FRAMEWORK SELF-APPRAISAL TOOLKIT

The Self-Appraisal Toolkit has been designed to assist mental health services to conduct a self-assessment to determine if they have attained the standards and criteria set out in the National Quality Framework.

The level of attainment of each theme, standard, and criterion can be mapped over time. The Self-Appraisal Toolkit should be used to develop action plans for continuous quality improvement. It is designed to reflect the diverse settings in which mental health services are delivered, and as such, provides individual services with the scope to demonstrate how they have achieved quality by customising the self-appraisal process.

The format of carrying out the self-assessment, the make-up of the self-assessment team and the frequency of self-assessments will be determined by the registered proprietor nominee, relevant head of service or other person responsible for the overall delivery of a particular service. As such, effective governance and oversight arrangements are key to the successful implementation of the National Quality Framework.

For further information on how to implement the National Quality Framework and how to use this self-appraisal toolkit please refer to the MHC's National Quality Framework, Implementation Guide, available at www.mhcirl.ie.

The type or types of evidence used to inform the assessment of each criterion are selected using the appropriate abbreviation(s) outlined in the table below (Table 1).

Table 1: Abbreviations used on self-appraisal form to indicate type of evidence gathered

RD	Review of documentation/ records	QSM	Questionnaire with senior management
ISP	Interview / focus group with service provider	ISM	Interview / focus group with senior management
IST	Interview / focus group with staff	ISU	Interview / focus group with service user
QSP	Questionnaire with service provider	QST	Questionnaire with staff
QSU	Questionnaire with service user	DA	Digital artefact
VI	Inspection (visual)	Other	Other sources of data

Once the evidence has been gathered, the service can compare the findings against the National Quality Framework standards and criteria and award a rating to the criteria and overall standard (Table 2). The rating, type of evidence, timebound corrective actions and the named person(s) responsible for these actions should be recorded in the self-appraisal toolkit.

Table 2: Levels of attainment of standards and criteria

Attainment Level		Interpretation
DNA	Does not apply	This criterion does not apply to the service.
N/A	Not attained	The organisation is unable to demonstrate appropriate processes, systems or structures to meet the criterion.
P/A	Partially attained	There is evidence to indicate that the organisation partially meets the criterion.  Examples of this may be where a policy is in place but not being followed, or where the appropriate process is evident but without supporting documentation.
F/A	Fully attained	The service can clearly provide evidence of implementation of the processes, systems or structures to meet the criterion.
CQI	Continued quality improvement	Having fully attained the criterion, the service demonstrates effective review processes. This includes data analysis, reporting of findings, evidence of action(s) and improvements to service provision as a result of this review process.

THE NATIONAL QUALITY FRAMEWORK: SELF-APPRAISAL TOOLKIT

Theme 1

Theme 1 is ‘Ensuring quality through clinical and corporate leadership and governance within mental health services to deliver evidence-based care and quality improvement’. There are five standards and 33 criteria under this theme.

Standard 1.1: The mental health service delivers quality throughout all aspects of the service, underpinned by effective clinical and corporate leadership and governance.

About this standard: Effective clinical and corporate governance ensures that all members of the organisation are accountable for quality service user care. Key to this is a culture where individuals act in accordance with the organisational values, where the focus is on service user outcome, and where processes are in place to monitor, manage and ameliorate risk.

Criterion 1.1.1: The mental health service promotes and encourages a culture of continuous quality improvement consistent with its philosophy of care.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: An explicit statement of purpose that staff can articulate; incorporation of service user and staff feedback into service delivery; number of staff trained in quality improvement methodology; an audit and standards committee and/or integrated quality and safety committee is in place.

Standard 1.2: The mental health service delivers quality throughout all aspects of the service, underpinned by evidence informed policies and practices.

About this standard: A quality and recovery oriented mental health service actively seeks the best available national and international evidence and combines this with insight into the needs of the populations it serves to ensure the delivery of contemporary, evidence-informed and person-centred services.

Criterion 1.2.1: The mental health service uses best research evidence to inform and improve service planning and delivery.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: The mental health service draws evidence from a variety of sources and is identifiable in policies and practices; staff have access to databases and repositories; training in literature searching and quality appraisal is provided; modifiable barriers to evidence-based psychological treatments are assessed and actioned; staff are trained in evidence-based treatments; information is provided to service users regarding evidence-based treatments; engagement with and effectiveness of evidence based treatments is monitored.

About this standard: Staff and volunteers providing mental health services conduct their daily work in the structures and processes designed by the mental health service. They know what works well, what would benefit from improvement, and where innovation can happen. A quality and recovery oriented mental health service acknowledges the expertise embedded in practice and operates an empowering culture which actively seeks feedback from those on the frontline of service provision.

Criterion 1.4.1: The mental health service seeks, values and actions feedback from staff and volunteers.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Staff fora are scheduled at regular intervals; opportunities for anonymous staff feedback are available; staff confirm that the organisational culture facilitates feedback; staff and volunteers feel that their opinion matters; there is evidence of incorporation of staff feedback into the design and delivery of services and the work environment.

Standard 1.5: The mental health service delivers a high-quality service through optimal use, leadership, and governance of non-human resources.

About this standard: A quality and recovery oriented mental health service must be adequately funded to ensure staff and services are there to support those in need. Furthermore, the mental health service must ensure the efficient and effective use of the capital resources it does receive. Initiatives that provide for early, collaborative and community-based interventions are not only cost effective but result in better outcomes for the service user through the prevention of crisis and the avoidance of admission. This requires the mental health service to work collaboratively with governmental and non-governmental agencies to address the biopsychosocial determinants of mental health.

Criterion 1.5.1: The mental health service has a secure and sustainable funding model and governance.

Theme 2

Theme 2 is ‘Ensuring quality through a compassionate, holistic, non-discriminatory, and person-centred service responsive to the needs of the service user (including their families, carers, and representatives).’ There are two standards and ten criteria under this theme.

Standard 2.1: The mental health service is a mainstream service for all that flexibly responds to the needs of the individual and social groups.

About this standard: The mental health service should promote inclusion by offering a mainstream service for all. However, it should also flexibly respond to the needs of specific individuals or groups who may experience challenges in accessing a mainstream service (e.g. homeless persons, members of the travelling community, non-English speakers). Such a service is underpinned by a philosophy of care based on person-centeredness, inclusion and equity.

Criterion 2.1.1: The mental health service has an explicit philosophy of care which informs its culture.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: An up-to-date and approved statement of purpose is in place and publicly available; care is delivered in line with the statement of purpose; the philosophy of care is visible throughout the service; staff and volunteers can articulate the philosophy of care; key stakeholders are involved in developing the statement of purpose.

Standard 2.2: The mental health service adopts a multidisciplinary holistic approach across the continuum of care from acute to continuing.

About this standard: A quality, rights-based, and recovery-focused mental health service recognises and considers the wider determinants of health and mental health in the provision of its service. It appreciates that service user engagement is optimised when the person feels respected, empowered, included, and treated as an individual. Outcomes are best when mental health deterioration can be prevented or detected early so that timelier and community-based care can be provided in an environment that maintains the social supports of the service user.

Criterion 2.2.1: The mental health service incorporates holistic approaches to care within a compassionate biopsychosocial philosophy.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: A mission statement identifying recovery processes and outcomes; opportunities for service users to engage in recreational and social activities; a flexible approach to visiting; facilitating the practice of religion or spirituality; service user education in healthy living, life skills, addiction, self-help and/or relationships; mental health service engagement with community services, governmental and non-governmental partners; provision of talk-therapies; access to physical health care including national screening programmes; evidence of a physical examination is documented at the time of the admission.

Theme 3

Theme 3 is 'Ensuring quality through a visible and accessible holistic mental health system and service that prioritises prevention and promotes recovery.' There are three standards and 27 criteria under this theme.

Standard 3.1: The mental health system provides an integrated service across the continuum of care in conjunction with its partners.

About this standard: A quality, rights-based, and recovery-focused mental health service acknowledges the many factors that may negatively affect a person's mental health. It engages in multidisciplinary team working and liaises with partner services to address the biopsychosocial aspects of mental health to help remove or reduce causative factors of poor mental health while optimising access to services.

Criterion 3.1.1: The mental health service adopts a holistic approach to service design and delivery that assesses and provides intervention through a biopsychosocial model.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: The service works collaboratively with partner services, governmental and non-governmental agencies to promote the health and development of the service user; families, carers, and peer support workers are involved where appropriate in the care and support of the service user; the mental health service offers innovative approaches to care that address the multifactorial nature of mental health; service users have access to a range of professional services.

Standard 3.2: The mental health service is responsive and accessible to all at the point of need.

About this standard: Mental health care should be available to those that need it, when they need it. Where care is provided, and what that care looks like will depend on the needs of the service user and thus, mental health services must ensure that they are not only accessible, but also responsive. This requires building relationships with other service providers to avoid duplication of effort and to ensure that the right care is delivered by the right people.

Criterion 3.2.1: The mental health service is available to all who need it, is easy to access, and is available when needed.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Disaggregated data in relation to waiting time to access the mental health service; a variety of entry points to the service; provision of out-of-hours services; availability of information related to services provided; records show that admission to the mental health service is efficient with minimised delay.

Standard 3.3: Access, discharge, and transition through mental health services is optimised.

About this standard: Key to the delivery of a quality mental health service is managed access, exit and transition through the service. Delivering care in the community, early discharge planning, engaging community supports, and a recovery-focused approach to care will help prevent unnecessary (re)admission, increase accessibility of services to others, and will ensure that the service user can live their normal life in so far as is possible.

Criterion 3.3.1: The mental health service facilitates transition from child to adult services by developing sustainable relationships with the young person and creating a safe clinical environment.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Liaison workers are employed across child and adult services; information on transition is available in a variety of forms; no child is resident in adult environments; policies, procedures, protocols and guidelines are in place.

Criterion 3.3.4: The mental health service ensures that the care which it provides:

- is planned in consultation with the service user and their nominated representative, where appropriate. In the case of children, the child’s parent or guardian should be consulted when updates to the care and treatment plan are made.
- is documented and communicated to the service user and their family member and/or the person’s representative (where appropriate). All updates to the service user’s care and treatment should also be communicated with the referring clinician (e.g. GP).

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Service users’ wishes are considered and documented; the service liaises with external partners in relation to the admission, transfer, discharge and temporary absence of service users; comprehensive information is provided to the service user and their family member and/or the person’s representative.

THEME 4

Theme 4 is ‘Ensuring quality through an equal, socially inclusive and diverse mental health care service that recognises and responds to traumatic events and circumstances in peoples’ lives.’ There are three standards and 19 criteria under this theme.

Standard 4.1: The mental health service responds to the diverse needs of the community it serves.

About this standard: There are many factors that affect mental health and a quality, recovery-oriented mental health service acknowledges the wider determinants of mental health and proactively plans its services to optimise outcomes.

Criterion 4.1.1: The mental health service considers the needs, social circumstances and support structures of its sector population and the availability of staff with relevant skills.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: The mental health service contributes to public policy and debate; a multidisciplinary service that provides a range of therapies and information; services planned in conjunction with local advocacy and support groups.

Standard 4.2: The mental health service partners with communities to promote social inclusion and advocacy on the social determinants of health.

About this standard: Social inclusion and support is an important aspect of recovery oriented care. Such support and advocacy can take a number of forms and is best provided by those organisations with intuitive insight into unique and often complex needs of the populations they serve. A quality and recovery oriented mental health service works inter-sectorally to challenge discrimination and exclusion to more efficiently and effectively address the deficiency and growth needs of the individual service user.

Criterion 4.2.1: The mental health service avails of community-based facilities to enable community involvement and enhance service visibility.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: The mental health service has access to community facilities to deliver services; provide information and/or promote positive mental health strategies; use of mobile clinics or outreach services; the mental health service monitors social inclusion outcomes of service users.

Standard 4.3: The mental health service is underpinned by a trauma-informed approach to mental health care and treatment, which recognises that service users may have experienced some form of trauma in their life and seeks to resist traumatising or re-traumatising service users and staff.

About this standard: Individuals can suffer trauma as a result of events and/or circumstances in their lives. Trauma such as homelessness, sexual abuse, addiction or forced migration for example can cause disempowerment and disconnection and can enduringly impact on the mental health of the individual resulting in maladaptive coping strategies, suicidal ideation, and self-harm. A quality and recovery-focused mental health service recognises the potential for both service users and service providers to suffer trauma. It responds to trauma by establishing a safe environment where trust can be built and connection re-established.

Criterion 4.3.1: The mental health service adopts a trauma-informed and sensitive approach to service users, recognising that all service users may have suffered trauma in their lives and acknowledging the impact of events or circumstances in their lives and factors that might have contributed to trauma.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: The mental health service acknowledges that trauma may have occurred in the service user's life; the mental health service recognises admission as a potential source of trauma; staff are trained in trauma-informed care; facilities are available for the provision of psychological therapies, links are established with community mental health teams.

THEME 5

Theme 5 is ‘Ensuring quality through a mental health service that understands recovery and supports the service user towards recovery.’ There are two standards and 12 criteria under this theme.

Standard 5.1: The mental health service promotes autonomy and self-determination by including the service user as an active participant in their care.

About this standard: Personal recovery is a fundamental aim of quality mental health care. While recovery is unique to each individual, the process of supporting service users towards recovery will always involve instilling hope, empowerment and self-determination. Co-produced and regularly reviewed care plans that reflect the individual service user’s experiences and aspirations can help promote a positive sense of self and a shared understanding of the intended outcome of care.

Criterion 5.1.1: The mental health service provides a values-based, safe, and driven service that is trustworthy and accessible.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Service users are informed of their rights on admission (where applicable) and throughout their episode of care; decision support services are available to service users; services are provided close to the person’s community.

Criterion 5.1.2: The mental health service adopts a multidisciplinary and co-production approach so that recovery begins at the care planning stage.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Care plans reflect the wishes of the service user in their own words; planning for discharge begins on admission to the service; service users’ strengths are identified and reinforced; a multidisciplinary approach to care.

Standard 5.2: The mental health service focuses on the service user’s strengths to achieve a shared vision for recovery.

About this standard: A quality and recovery oriented mental health service acknowledges that service users must be afforded the time and space in which to define and refine what recovery means to them. Building existing strengths and supports and gaining the knowledge and skill to develop new ones empowers the service user, instils hope, and promotes self-actualisation. A named healthcare worker, the provision of community-based care, and family involvement can help service users maintain connection with others.

THEME 6

Theme 6 is 'Ensuring quality through co-produced care planning, which is underpinned by rights-based mental health care, confidentiality, and regard for an individual's will and preferences.' There are three standards and 17 criteria under this theme.

Standard 6.1: Service users are active participants in planning and delivering their care.

About this standard: A quality and recovery-focused mental health service recognises that empowerment is a key step on the road to service user recovery. Empowering service users to actively participate in planning and delivering care is achieved by having the right staff with the right skills in the right place and at the right time. It requires a biopsychosocial approach to care where active listening helps to craft a plan that is meaningful to the individual. Accurately documenting this plan aids in monitoring progress and allows for amendments to be made where required.

Criterion 6.1.1: The mental health service demonstrates service user inclusivity in planning and delivering care, including, where appropriate, the inclusion of the person's nominated representative, and ensuring that the person's will and preference is at the centre of their care.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: The mental health service uses a template to document the care and recovery plan; service users are involved in planning their care and plan for discharge; service users are asked about their preferences; service user, family, and carer feedback is sought and actioned; contingency planning is included in the needs-based care plan.

Criterion 6.1.2: The mental health service provides skilled staff to facilitate the generation of a holistic, multidisciplinary, co-produced, individualised, and recovery-oriented care plan.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: The mental health service clearly communicates with the service user; the multidisciplinary team reflects the needs of the service user; the mental health service considers the service users recreational, social and vocational needs; families and carers are involved in co-producing the care plan, where appropriate; service users receive education in goal setting.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: The care plan utilises the language of hope, realism and optimism; a comprehensive biopsychosocial template is used that accounts for varying service user needs; the care plan emphasises the strengths and abilities of the service user.

Standard 6.3: The mental health service adopts a rights-based approach to care.

About this standard: Each individual is born with the inalienable right to self-determination, and to be treated with fairness, respect, equality and dignity. A quality and recovery oriented mental health service has a moral, ethical, legal, and professional obligation to uphold these rights. The nature of the service user’s illness, however, may mean that the mental health service is compelled to balance competing rights (such as liberty and security) in order to fulfil its duty of care. Where decisions are made by the service that interfere with the service user’s human rights, these decisions must be legally justifiable, proportionate, rational and regularly reviewed.

Criterion 6.3.1: The mental health service adopts rights-based standards that may be supported by legislation.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Restrictive practices are only used when the risk to the person or others outweighs the risk of not using it; staff understand the rights of the service user, their colleagues and themselves; service users actively and meaningfully participate in decisions about their care, and are empowered where necessary with advocacy or decision support services; mental health service accountability to the maintenance of human rights is evident in policies, procedures, protocols, guidelines and processes.

THEME 7

Theme 7 is 'Ensuring quality through the provision of adequately resourced, well led, and governed mental health care services.' There are four standards and 28 criteria under this theme.

Standard 7.1: The mental health service is appropriately staffed to deliver a high quality, efficient and effective service at the time of need.

About this standard: Users of mental health services may have many and varied needs. A quality and recovery oriented mental health service plans the number and skill mix of its staff to ensure that service users' needs are met. This planning takes account of the biopsychosocial needs of the service user, the size of the service, the safety of all, and the 24-hour nature of mental health care.

Criterion 7.1.1: The mental health service is staffed by a kind, compassionate, educated, culturally aware, and multidisciplinary workforce.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Records of staff training in unconscious bias and cultural awareness; observation of friendly, patient, professional, and compassionate interactions between service users and staff; records of service user complaints and compliments; a diverse workforce.

Standard 7.4: The mental health service ensures that physical environments and facilities are conducive to recovery-oriented care.

About this standard: A quality and recovery oriented mental health service recognises the importance of instilling hope, maintaining connection, empowering the person and rebuilding identity. This is best achieved in psychologically safe physical environments that are conducive to care. Environments that offer privacy, recreation, healthy and varied meals, religion and spiritual expression, and the opportunity to communicate with and meet family members, create the conditions for healing to take place.

Criterion 7.4.1: The mental health service provides a physical environment and facilities that are safe for all who access them.

THEME 8

Theme 8 is ‘Ensuring quality through an internally and externally connected mental health service.’

There are two standards and 14 criteria under this theme.

Standard 8.1: The mental health service connects with key internal stakeholders and partners.

About this standard: A quality and recovery oriented mental health service communicates effectively with key internal stakeholders and partners. It clearly communicates its mission, vision, values and purpose and builds the team towards a unified goal. Equally, the quality and recovery oriented mental health service listens to its internal stakeholders and partners, and values their knowledge, expertise and experience in creating an environment that is conducive to care.

Criterion 8.1.1: The mental health service has standards in place for information and communication technology infrastructure and usage.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: Staff can articulate consent and data protection principles and policies; there are good practice standards in place for the use of information and communication technology; information and communication hardware and software are updated and replaced to prevent data loss.

Standard 8.2: The mental health service connects with key external stakeholders and partners.

About this standard: A quality and recovery oriented mental health service communicates effectively with key external stakeholders and partners. Through careful and considered messaging, it addresses specific barriers to accessing and interpreting information in the demographics it serves. It uses technology to expand its reach, enhance its accessibility, and inform the public of the services available.

Criterion 8.2.1: The mental health service has clear standards for communicating with key external stakeholders and partners.

Some examples of achieving this criterion might include: A system of notification to regulatory authorities and other agencies; staff understand standards and criteria for communicating adverse events to external stakeholders and agencies; brand guidelines support staff in external communication; service user information takes account of literacy level and language; public relations advice and media training is available to staff.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

Assisted Decision-Making (Capacity) Act 2015: The 2015 Act is a significant piece of reforming human rights legislation which provides a modern statutory framework for supported decision-making. The Act reforms Ireland's capacity legislation, which has been in place since the 19th century, by establishing a modern statutory framework to support decision-making by adults who have difficulty in making decisions without help (Saunders, 2020).

Biopsychosocial: Refers to the biological, psychological and social determinants of health. Evidence suggests that understanding the social, non-social and baseline everyday life skills when combined with personalised psychosocial interventions supports independent living (Barlatti et al. 2018).

Clinical governance: A system for improving the standard of clinical practice including clinical audit, education and training, research and development, risk management, clinical effectiveness and openness.

Co-production: Is the active involvement of citizens in service planning, design and delivery including the direct involvement of users in the production, at least in part, of their own services (Khine et al. 2021).

Digital artefact: A digital artefact is any type of item produced and stored digitally. It includes documents, presentations, programmes, videos and audio files and images and photographs.

Dignity: The right of an individual to privacy, bodily integrity and autonomy, and to be treated with respect as a person in their own right.

Evidence informed: Used to describe practices based on the integration of experience, judgement and expertise with the best available external evidence from systematic research (Parahoo 2014).

Person-centred: Person-centred focuses on the needs of the person; ensuring that the person's preferences, needs, and values guide clinical decisions or support; and providing care that is respectful and responsive to them.

Positive behaviour support: Positive behaviour support involves assessments that look beyond the behaviour of a person and seek to understand the causes or triggers of the behaviours. These causes may be social, environmental, cognitive, or emotional. The approach is one of behaviour change as opposed to behaviour management.

Recovery Support Team: Recovery support teams are teams which are in place to support recovery. These teams can include mental health nurses, social workers, doctors, occupational therapists and psychologists. The teams deliver individualised service to service users to help them maintain independence. Service users are involved in planning for possible relapse.

Representative: An individual chosen by the person who is being cared for (e.g. friend, family member, advocate) or a legal professional appointed by the person, statutory organisation or court to represent the person. Please note that representative does not have the same meaning as any terms within the Assisted Decision-Making (Capacity) Act 2015 and its meaning is to be viewed disjunctively to definitions within the Act.

Responsiveness: A responsive mental health service ensures that persons with a mental health disability are cared for and supported by staff who are skilled, trained and experienced. These staff communicate openly and honestly with colleagues inside and outside of their service. The evidence shows that responsive staff use their professional judgement to ensure that persons receive the care and support that they need and support families to act as advocates to ensure their needs are met (Mental Health Commission 2022).

Rights-based approach: Integrating human rights norms and principles in the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of policies and programmes. The principles of equality and freedom from discrimination are central.

Self-Appraisal tool: The self-appraisal tool makes use of information and specific indicators to assess whether particular aspects of service provision are meeting the established standards.

Social determinants of (mental) health: The evidence shows that these determinants are the social, non-social and baseline everyday life skills that influence mental health in a positive or negative manner (Mental Health Commission 2022).

Trauma-informed care: Trauma-informed care is an approach which acknowledges that many people who experience mental health difficulties may have experienced some form of trauma in their life. A trauma-informed approach seeks to resist traumatising or re-traumatising service users and staff. Trauma-informed service delivery means that everyone at all levels of the mental health services understands how trauma may affect families, groups, organisations and communities as well as individuals (Department of Health 2020).
